WHEELING, APRIL 12, 1892.

Republican State Convention!

At a meeting of the State Central Committee, held at the city of Parkersburg, on February 23, 1892, it was ordered that a State Convention be held at the city of Martinsburg, on THURSDAY, the 5th day of May, 1892, to elect four (4) Delegates-at-Large and four (4) Alternates-at-Large to the Republican National Convention, to be held at the city of Minneapolis, Minnesota, on Tuesday, the 7th day of June, 1892, to nominate candidates to be supported for the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States; and also, in view of the change in the arrangement of the several Senatorial districts of this State, to elect members of the State Republican Central Committee, consisting of one person from each Senatorial district.

The Executive Committee of each county is requested to take early steps to secure each county representation in said State Convention, as well as in the Congressional District Conventions to elect district delegates and alternates to said National Convention, and it is recommended that each county elect one delegate to said State Convention for each one hundred (100) votes or fraction thereof greater than fifty (50) cast therefor in the Presidential election in 1888.

The co-operation is desired of all Republican voters and all other voters who favor the policy of Protection to American laborers, farmers and manufacturers, the policy of Reciprocity, a sound currency, the cause of good government in the Nation, State and County, and who favor economy and reform in the State government of West Virginia and the several public institutions thereof.

The Congressional District Conventions above referred to will be held as follows: First district at Clarksburg, on May 6; Second district at Keokuk, on May 4; Third district at Hinton, on May 3; Fourth district at Point Pleasant, on April 20.

AUGUSTUS POLLACK, Chairman.
WM. M. O. DAWSON, Secretary.

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL District Convention.

It is ordered that a District Convention of Republicans, and all others who favor the policy of Protection to American laborers, farmers and manufacturers and a sound currency, shall be held at Clarksburg, May 6, 1892, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of choosing two delegates and two alternate delegates, to represent the First Congressional district in the National Republican Convention, to be held in the city of Minneapolis, in the State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of June, 1892, for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice-President, to be voted for at the next National election, and for transacting such other business as may be brought before said convention. The Executive Committee of each county is requested to take early steps to have each county represented at said Convention. It is recommended that each county select one delegate for each one hundred (100) votes or fraction over fifty (50) cast therefor for President Harrison in 1888.

W. E. STATHERS, Chairman.
J. C. BRADY, Secretary.

THE approaching contest is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision on these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence.

Silver Dollars.

The esteemed Register does not seem to understand the difference between a silver dollar that goes at par and a silver dollar that would fall to its merchandise value.

At the present price of silver the silver dollar is worth less than seventy cents, but as gold has not been driven to a premium the silver dollar passes at par. Under the bill for the free and unlimited coinage of silver dollars gold would soon command a premium, and then the silver dollar would be worth in business transactions the value of the silver in it. Based on the American silver product of 1890 the silver producers would pocket something over $30,000,000.

If the Register doesn't understand the difference it can at least say whether it is for the free and unlimited coinage of silver or against it—for the Bland bill or opposed to it. Thus far its only expression of opinion has been to advise West Virginia congressmen to dodge the question.

Senate Leakages.

It is more than possible that the senate's action in making a scapegoat of Executive Clerk Young, by declaring his office vacant, was too hastily taken. Because Mr. Young (who has been an officer of the senate for nearly twenty years and has proven his faithfulness to duty) happened to be a newspaper man, senators came to the conclusion that he was responsible for the leakage from executive sessions. So, without investigation, Mr. Young was legislated out of office.

The fact is, Mr. Young has the reputation of being a very discreet officer, and every newspaper correspondent in Washington knows that a great injustice has been done him. He will not rest under suspicion long, or we mistake the temper of his friends.

Senators who are desirous of stopping the worrisome leakage would do well not to look for it among the employees of the senate. They will never find it there. The hole through which executive secrets most frequently reach the newspapers and through them the public, isn't the mouth of any one less humble than a senator himself. Senators will do well, perhaps, to look higher for the leaks.

One way to stop the leakages is, not to punish innocent men when secrets get out, but to abolish the absurd secret session. It is a useless piece of humbug, except in certain rare emergencies, and the sooner it is done away with, the sooner the senate will make a step in the direction of popularizing itself among the people.

The Naval Review.

The great naval review to be held in Hampton Roads and New York harbor next April, in connection with the celebration of the discovery of America by Columbus, will be one of the most interesting features of the quadricentennial year. It will be the more interesting as it will be the first grand display of the new navy of the United States, and will afford the people an opportunity to arrive at some conception of the efficiency of our naval force. The available ships of the new navy constitute a formidable force, and the demonstration is certain to be very creditable.

What would greatly add to the effectiveness and instructiveness of the proposed display would be the presence of representative war ships from foreign nations. For the purpose of defraying the expense of such an addition to the proposed demonstration, Secretary Tracy recommended an appropriation of $250,000, but this the house of representatives seems disposed to refuse.

The desirability of providing for such an instructive pageant is so great that it is surprising that the house should show such a lack of appreciation of the subject. It is hoped that the appropriation will yet be made.

It looks as if the ticket will again be Harrison and Morton. Mr. Morton brought strength to the Republican cause in New York in 1888, and there is no reason to believe that he has lost any of his popularity there. He has made a dignified and able presiding officer of the senate and is a man in whom the country would have great confidence should anything occur to make it necessary for him to assume the duties of the presidential office.

The New York Advertiser advises the Republicans to nominate a man who can defeat Cleveland "with absolute ease," and names Robert T. Lincoln as the only man who can fill the bill. The Advertiser forgets that one Benjamin Harrison has demonstrated once that he is a stronger man than Cleveland, and that he has steadily gained in public favor since then by giving us a clean, able, upright, patriotic administration.

The New York Independent, the well known religious journal, in discussing the creditable characteristics of President Harrison's administration, sums them all up in the following sentence: "Able, efficient, clean, safe and patriotic, the administration of President Harrison challenges comparison with any that have preceded it."

That is it, exactly. During the coming campaign the enemy will be put to their wits' end to find something about the administration to criticize.

Thus remarkable declaration is from the Charleston (South Carolina) News and Courier: "We never will have a union in truth until the Republican party ceases to be an important factor in it." After this bold assertion we would not be surprised to see the News and Courier, and other organs of the late confederacy, claiming that it was the Republican party that attempted to destroy the Union in 1863.

Because two pension office clerks declined to say whether one had borrowed money from the other, they swearing that the transaction was purely private and in no wise connected with their official duties, the Raum investigating committee asks the house to request the commissioner to discharge them from public employ. Just what the committee expects to gain by this petty action does not appear.

In the celebration of the opening of her new encaustic tile works Zanesville gives Wheeling an example of wide-awake enterprise which she might profit by; but a proposed celebration of the inauguration of improvements costing millions where that cost thousands here killed by coldness. Wheeling ought to wake up.

WEBSTER COUNTY Republicans are made of the right sort of stuff. The odds are against them in the county, but they are starting off in the campaign in a way that ought to inspire enthusiasm in the party throughout the state. Their resolutions, published in this morning's INTELLIGENCER, have the ring of true metal in them.

For the Register to say it isn't in favor of the "Republican silver dollar," (though it fails to give a good reason for its position), does not answer the point blank question as to whether or not it is in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar. Is it waiting to see how the party bosses in West Virginia stand on the question?

SECRETARY STANTON'S memory needed no defense at the hands of George C. Gorham, since no one attacked it. Senator Sherman's remarks did not reflect upon the great war secretary in any way. It does seem that Mr. Gorham was quick to grasp an opportunity to advertise his forthcoming Life of Stanton.

THE Register can't have an affair with the INTELLIGENCER over the low priced wool clothing for sale in Wheeling. Its affair is with the dealers who offer that clothing for sale, and back the character of their goods with their reputations. This is the fix the Register is in at this writing.

THE spring floods in the west are more than usually severe. Happily the Ohio Valley has escaped so far this year, and there is reason to believe it will escape altogether, as there are no heavy snows in the interior to go off.

TWENTY-SIX tin plate factories are now running in this country with an annual capacity of 2,850,000 boxes. A year ago our Democratic friends were telling us that tin plate could not be made in the United States.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

It doesn't seem to be a very apt phrasing of slang to apply the phrase "in soak," to things that are "up the spout," for the spout, in this climate at least, is dry nine days out of ten. So moralized the comfortably fixed person who had no personal experience in such matters; but his companion, who had "been there" repeatedly, reminded him that it was only on the "rainy day" for which we are taught to provide, that recourse is had to "the spout" by the improvident.

Of The Remonstrant, recently started in Boston as the organ of women who do not want suffrage, The Women's Tribune remarks: "Learning that there is a paper started in Boston to be the organ of the not-strong-minded women, the organ of the 'strong-minded' would like to exchange."—New York Tribune.

PERSONAL POINTS.

The great millionaire, Maurice Hirsch, lives in true baronial style in his castle on the Danube, in Moravia. There is a drawbridge, portcullis, and all the medieval accessories of a once impregnable fortress. Here the baron hunts and shoots to his heart's content, but he is very fond of his billiard room, which contains every conceivable game of chance or skill. Mme. Hirsch, who speaks four languages fluently, is a model hostess, and the baron's hospitality is unbounded.

When the appraisers came to make a list of the personal property of Mrs. Julia Swinford, an old lady who died recently at Berry station, Ky., they found 115 nightcaps, all of different styles and patterns, ten pairs of shoes that had never been worn, fifteen pairs of scissors, and an innumerable lot of spoils of thread.

The physician who dissected the body of Schneider, the strangler executed in Vienna, reports the brain as abnormally developed, with evidence of having been affected from childhood with hydrocephalus, so that the brain power was diminished and the moral sense rendered almost nonexistent.

It is said of Abingdon Baird, the interesting London gentleman who blacked Mrs. Langtry's eye, that he pays $40,000 a year for his racing stable and an equal amount for his correspondence.

For Delegate-at-Large.
Correspondence of the Intelligencer.
ELKHORN, W. VA., April 8.—The friends of John D. Hewitt, of this county, throughout the Third district, have named him as a delegate-at-large to Minneapolis, and desire his election as a recognition of an earnest and effective worker. The mention of his name has been well received. Mr. Hewitt is one of the Republican wheel-horses of this region.

STATE POLITICS.

How They Love the Farmer.

The Democratic party of West Virginia is shedding crocodile tears as big as tea kettles to show its affection for the farmers. Yes, it loves the farmers with a consuming affection. It enfolded the farmers in its arms in 1890, and then, to show its sympathy for them, threw the virus of its evil nature over them in the shape of a bill for the revaluation of land. The farmer bears the increase and also pays the curb-stone assessors. Take away from the Democratic party of Morgan county the moss-backed aristocrats and their pinfeathered offsprings and there would not be a corporal's guard of them left. The same is true all over the state. And yet it loves the farmer.

"The tariff in a tax."—Register.
Five-inch taper saw files sold in Wheeling at 65 to 68 cents a dozen.

The tariff on five-inch taper saw files is 75 cents a dozen.

Will the Register explain who pays the tax in this case?—INTELLIGENCER.

Up to date the Register has not answered this very pertinent question. Sometimes a free trade organ drops into a hole and this is one of the times. If any tariff reformer can tell us who pays the tax in the case mentioned by the INTELLIGENCER he will be given a dozen five-inch files to gnaw at.

Democratic Candidate for Supreme Judge.

Fairmont Index (Dem.).
It is positively settled that Judge D. B. Lucas will not be a candidate for reelection to his present position as judge of the supreme court. The duties of the place are too arduous for the judge and he desires to retire in order to devote himself to literary pursuits, which are more congenial. Some mention has been made of Hon. Joseph Moreland, of Morgantown, as a suitable person for the Democracy, to nominate for this high and responsible position. No better man could be selected. Mr. Moreland is a good lawyer.

Deserves Recognition.

Maiden News (Dem.).
It seems pretty certain now that Andy Edmiston will contest with John O. Pendleton for the congressional nomination in the First district. Andy is a strong party worker, and he has plenty of brains. He is deserving of recognition at the hands of the party.

Hard to Beat.

JUDGE NATHAN GOFF AT SEA.

A Legal, Judicial and Revenue Marine Excursion.
Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.
Yesterday afternoon an excursion around the harbor was given in honor of Judge Goff, of the appellate court.

Among those who were present were: Judges Goff, Bond and Simonton and Messrs. George M. Trenholm, C. B. Northrop, B. A. Hagood, Charles Inglesby, Collector Johnston, Attorney General McLaurin, Speaker Ira B. Jones, R. W. Memminger, Jr., Knox Livingston, George D. Bryan, T. W. Bacon, Postmaster Mowry, J. T. Barron, Marshall G. I. Cunningham, W. Huger Fitzsimons, A. B. Lathrop, J. S. Cothran and many others.

The cutter took the members of the bar up the Ashley river, around Fort Sumter, up the Cooper river, and thence back to the custom house dock. Among those who made speeches were Judges Goff, Bond and Simonton. They were introduced respectively by Col. Charles Inglesby, Capt. George D. Bryan and Mr. George M. Trenholm.

The party returned to the city a few minutes after 6 o'clock.
